Gogledd Gŵyr

July 19th 2026

Seventh Sunday after Trinity

"Although you are sovereign in strength, you judge with mildness, and with great forbearance you govern us." Wisdom 12

I sit with this word: mildness.

Not weakness,

Not softness that dissolves, but the gentleness of One,

Who is never threatened, never hurried,

Never forced into reaction.

I let the thought settle:

God's strength is not something, that hammers me down,

But something that steadies me,

A sovereignty that does not crush,

A power that chooses patience.

I breathe in the truth that the world is,

Held by hands that do not tremble, and yet do not clench,

A God who could act at any moment, and still waits,

Teaching kindness, through the very way God rules.
